[Note: Paternity and legitimation affidavits are considered to be amendments to a birth certificate if they have been filed with the Vital Records Office.]

D (c) The Department of Vital Records has informed me that I cannot correct the year of birth by more than one year on a birth certificate without a court order.

D (d) The minor child was born at _____ (name of hospital), and the child's mother was admitted to the hospital under her maiden name of _____
_____, rather than her married name of _____

The hospital did not ask about her marital status or the name of the father. When Petitioner contacted the Department of Vital Records to straighten out the matter, Petitioner was told they needed to have a court order to correct the child's birth certificate.

Because the parents were married before the child's birth and continue to be married, this child is automatically presumed to be a child of the marriage and, but for the error on the part of the hospital, the child would have the father's surname and his name would be listed on the birth certificate. See Affidavit of _____ (Name of Parent signing Affidavit)

☐ (e) The minor child is over one year old.

☐ (f) I do not speak English. I provided the correct information to the staff at the hospital where the minor child was born, but the hospital staff failed to correctly write down the information I provided to them.

D (g) The Department of Vital Records has informed me that a Court order is needed for the following reasons: _____

Note: If the Department of Vital Records has informed you that you must obtain a court order for a reason other than one listed above, you should consult a lawyer to see whether or not this form can assist you in filing your petition.
